SOUTHERN GLEANINGS. Interesting Census Figures.

The only southern states the figures of whose race populations have been reported for the census of 1900 are Alabama, Arkensas, Louisiana, Kentucky and Maryland. Going back to the census of 1870, the first after the civil war and after the freeing of the negroes, it is seen that in all the states mentioned, with the exception of Louisians, there was a white majority. In each of those states the white majority has steadily increased; while in Louisiana, which started out with a negro majority, that has decreased until this state has acquired a white majority. The following figures are worth noting in

The Steel Workers Now Know Just What They Are Face to Face With.

ALL EYES ARE NOW WATCHING SHAFFER.

The President of the Amalgamated Association Will not Act Precipitately-Steel Corporation Directors Said to Be Dissatisfied With Mr. Morgan's Stand.

Pitisburgh, Pa., Aug. 5 .- Now that the suspense induced by the uncertainty of the outcome in the strike negotiations is over, there is less excitement here than there was last week and the people are looking matters squarely in the face.

Watching President Shaffer, Everybody is watching President Shaffer, as it is recognized that from him will emanate the next move in this great struggle. Speculation is now rife when he will issue the order for a general strike of all the Amalgamated men employed in the mills of the United States Steel corporation's plants.

The Strike May Not Spread.

Doubt is expressed in some quarters that the strike will spread further. It s suggested that the employes of the Federal Steel Co., National Steel Co. and National Tube Co. are at the present time the strikers' main source of weaken the asseciation in its fight by sepriving it of the funds necessary to tarry on the struggle. Another reaon given was that the Amalgamated association having signed contracts with all these companies for one year, beginning with July 1, 1901, would, by riolating these contracts, give Mr. Morgan and his associates trump sards they would not hesitate to use to the best effect. Being Felt in Pittsburgh.

The steel strike, though but begun, is already being felt in Pittsburgh. Many leading business houses have found business dropping off so as to make the removal of clerks imperalive. One department store last Sunday laid off 25 girls, and at the same time gave notice that if the strike were not settled by next Saturday it would likely be necessary to lay off more. Finances also suffered. On two days last neek the clearinghouse reports showed a decrease compared with last year. These were the only two days of the year whose clearings did not exceed figures of the corresponding days last year. "Their Fight to Ours."

President Shaffer arrived at the Amalgamated association headquarters at 11:45 a. m., and 15 minutes later called the newspaper men to his private office. When asked if a settlement could have been reached in New York Saturday, had they waived their eights at the Painter, Lindsay & Mcncheon and the Wellsville plants, he said: "The Amalgamated association ould have settled in New York if they had given us these mills, but we could not do that. Just as long as we can fight we are going to fight for them. They are as much of us now as any of the other lodges. Their fight is ours, and our fight is theirs."

PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA.

Pious Moslem Visited the Holy City Once at Least.

About 13 centuries ago Mohammed, which in Arabic means "the Praised." was born in Mecca, Arabia, which since that time has been held as the most holy city in Islam.

Some time after the death of Mohammed his disciples began to make pilgrimages to his birthplace, and the custom has continued ever since, although it is falling into disuse.

There was a time when every pious Moslem made at least one pilgrimage to the holy city, even if it beggared him, which, by the way, it generally did. The pilgrim was entitled to wear a green turban and be called Howadji, about the same as our "honorable.'

Mecca is neither a large nor a handsome city. The streets are broad and rather regular, but unpaved, and the houses, built of brick or stone, are old and generally out of repair.

The Beit Ullah (House of God), containing the Kaaba, a building in which is enshrined the sacred black to door. stone said to have been dropped from Paradise with Adam, is a large mosque, capable of containing 30,000 persons, and no other public building, threw away a cigar she had been sacred or profane, of any importance, is to be found in the city. .

Contrary to the general belief, it is not remarkably difficult for a European or American Christian to visit Mecca, although the exploit is seldom attempted.

Dr. Hurgronje, of Holland, lived six months in Mecca in the guise of a Mohammedan effendi, or doctor, and other Christians have visited the holy city for a week or two. Of course they were disguised, and were familiar with Mohammedan prayers and ceremonies.

During the pilgrim season a disguise is comparatively easy on account of the vast and varied multitudes and the babel of languages. The danger at all times comes not so much from the authorities as from pleasure if they fathomed his secret.

Juan handed the baskets to his father, who fastened them to the horse's back so that one hung on each side. They were filled with potatoes and corn. The father climbed up and crossed his feet under the horse's neck. He put the boy in front of him and, calling his wife, "I wish you would make me a hat from the grass in the yard," started off.

A turn in the road brought them to the market. There were ox carts and people with baskets on their heads coming from all sides. Juan's mother moved the dishes, a hammock and a few ragged clothes out of the hut. His father packed them on the little horse and the family started up the mountain to find a good place for the new house. After awhile they came to a mango grove and agreed to build there. Old Life-Saver Says They Never Signal for Assistance.

Comes to the Surface Three Times Said to Be Without Foundation.

(Special Washington Letter.) F ALL the stories about drowning people, this is the most singular and interesting that the writer has ever heard. There is a free bathing beach in the Potomac river which is carefully guarded, and yet quite a number of bathers have lost their lives there. One of the life Turning to follow a blue and yel- gavers there to-day said: "In all my low bird in the branches Juan saw experience, and I have had considerhis mother coming up the path. Time and neither bed nor covering. He heard again I have seen poor swimmers his mother singing to the soft notes start from the shore and after paddling a short distance throw up one hand and go under. It is the most remarkable thing imaginable that they give no signal of distress when help is so near. I have often asked rescued persons why they did not call for help, but they could give no explanation. They knew they were drowning, but the only sign of their peril was the involuntary raising of the arm. I have become so accustomed to this sort of thing-that peculiar manner in which a drowning person throws up the hand-that among a score of bathers diving, ducking and splashing about I can tell the one in danger in an instant.

"The impression that a drowning person comes to the surface three times is a mistake. In fact, in most cases he goes under once and stays there unless some one goes after him. Ordinarily, a person overboard takes enough water into the body on first sinking to weight it so that it will not rise to the surface, but there seems to be no rule of nature governing this.

HOW PEOPLE DROWN is another of the mysteries of drowning. If there are more ways of killing a cat than one, so there are more reasons than one why people drown. Good swimmers, bad swimmers, and those who can't swim at all go under and stay from time to time. If people will go into the water, people will drown. We guard against accidents to the best of our ability, but occasionally some one goes down never to come up alive. We guards sit here and watch, go in and drag out all who appear in distress, but despite our vigilance suddenly some one will be missed, going down without a word, surrounded by half a hundred persons, any one of whom would possibly have been able to extend a helping hand.

In only a comparatively few instances has it been impossible to revive the bather. Of the drownings the public always hears, but the lives that we save at the beach seldom attract attention. Day after day boys have been rescued who probably never even told their parents that they had been on the point of drowning.

"The first thing a boy does on being rescued, if in a conscious condition, is to tell a lie. He will declare that he was not drowning, but was only trying to fool some other boy. ### Cured of Catarrh of the Stomach by Pe-ru-na.

Delegate to Congress from Hawaii.

Hon. Robert W. Wilcox, Delegate to Congress from Hawaii and the Sandwich Islands, in a recent letter from Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna for dyspepsia and I cheerfully give you this testimonial. Am satisfied if it is used properly it will be of great benefit to our people. I can conscientiously rec--R. W. Wilcox.

"Well, I suppose because they're so much cheaper than new ones."-Philadelphia

All over this country are hundreds of people who are suffering from catarrh of the stomach who are wasting precious time, and enduring needless suffering. The remedies they try only temporarily palliate the distress, but never effect a cure. Remedies for dyspepsia have multiplied so rapidly that they are becoming as numerous as the leaves of the forest, and yet dyspepsia continues to flourish in spite of them all. This is due to the fact that the cause of dyspepsia is not recognized as catarrh.

If there is a remedy in the whole range of medicinal preparations that is in every particular adapted to dyspepsia, that remedy is Peruna. This remedy is well nigh invincible in these

Dr. Hartman, President of The Harts man Sanitarium, Columbus, O., says; "In my large practice and correspondence I have yet to learn of a single case of atonic dyspepsia which has not either been greatly benefited or cured by Peruna.

No one suffering with catarrh of the stomach or dyspepsia, however slight, can be well or happy. It is the cause of so many distressing symptoms that it is a most dreaded disease. Peruna acts immediately on the seat of the trouble, the inflamed mucous membranes lining the stomach and a lasting cure is

We now have our own sulphur spring. Some years ago this spring was found on A. C. Babb's farm. Recently donations have been made for improvements on it. It has been dug to the depth of sixteen feet and tiling has been sunk. A shed will be erected and other improvements brought about to make it convenient to the public. There will be a good many hogs These improvements are due to both time and money to the enterprise. One day it promises to become at least a local resort.
